

generosity in giving to Victorian fire victims

JJ's Bakery, Longford was quick to offer a Bushfire Relief collection facility, and the public was most generous in their response. Pictured, from left are Andrew Jack, Erin Dawson and Kristy Tatnell, all of Longford with Val Murfett, of Cressy.

The Northern Midlands Council supported the collection of relief items, and some of these were temporarily stored in the Town Hall, Longford. Pictured unloading just a small portion of the donations made by the public are, left, Hamish Wellard, of Campbell Town and Robert Pitchford, of the Longford Depot.

Member for Lyons Michael Polley was quite amazed at the generosity of the local community. He is pictured above with just one of the many generous donations handed in at his office.
